Summary

I have broad and diverse experience beyond software development: fundraising, running my own startup, handling the legal aspects of digital services, and resolving operational issues end to end.

I quickly understand new subject areas and can lead teams while maintaining a high level of engineering culture and a positive working atmosphere. The creative side of the work and the satisfaction of solving difficult problems are very important to me.

I have experience with public speaking, meetups, and DevRel activities. I try to keep the bigger picture in view without losing sight of product, business, and technical context.
